

Who is the National Careers Service and how can they help?

The National Careers Service are Careers Advisers you can contact via telephone, text, webchat or face to face meetings. The Service offers free impartial advice and guidance to support your decisions about careers, courses and training.

The National Careers Service website allows you to explore and research different careers and roles, salary details, training pathways in the current Labour Market.

<https://nationalcareers.service.gov.uk/explore-careers>

The service is free and there are no age restrictions to using this service.

National Careers Service

Telephone: 0800 100 900

Text your name and the word ADVICE on 07766 413219, and the National Careers Service will call you back.

Opening times are 8am to 10pm 7 days a week.